

Clare Cortright is a mental health consumer and family member. She is the Policy Director at CalVoices, which is a peer-run advocacy agency and direct service provider. She graduated from the University of California, Hastings College of the Law and is a licensed attorney. She has defended thousands of mental health consumers placed on involuntary holds and facing involuntary medication orders under State law. She also has experience working in voluntary, unlocked mental health residential programs in California.