

Shocking Our Mothers and Grandmothers

Stop State-Sponsored Violence Against Women

Join us for an anti-shock
Mother's Day event

May 13, 2007
2-4 pm
in front of Queen's Park

(march begins at the
Clarke Institute, 250
College Street at
1:15 pm)

The Gentleman's way
to beat up a woman
-Ollie May Bozarth (1978)

- Electroshock is touted as the treatment of choice for post-partum depression.
- Women receive electroshock 2-3 times as much as men
- Elderly women are the greatest risk of electroshock 52% of electroshock treatments are given to women over 60

BYOB (Bring Your Own Baby)
BYOMAG (Bring Your Own Mother and Grandmother)

Proudly Sponsored By: CAPA (Coalition Against Psychiatric Assault); Sistering; and the Centre for Women and Trans People at York University
Proudly Endorsed By: Ontario Coalition Against Poverty; The Toronto Rape Crisis Centre; Multicultural Women Against Rape; Lunatic Liberation Front; Mind Freedom International; School for Disability Studies at Ryerson; Greenspiration; Resistance Against Psychiatry; The Centre for Women's Studies in Education at OISE/UT; The Transformative Learning Centre at OISE/UT; Friendly Spike Theatre Band; Canadian Alliance for Rights in Healthcare; Parkdale Community Legal Services; Street Health; The Edmund Yu Project; Mad Students Guerillas; Women's Counselling Referral and Education Centre; Action Autonomie; Call Us Crazy; York University Access Centre; Toronto Disaster Relief Committee; Ithaca Mental Patients Advocacy Coalition; Assaulted Women and Children Counsellor Advocate Program, George Brown College.

For more information, call Don Weitz (416) 545-0796 or email Shaindl Diamond at capa@oise.utoronto.ca